

Saltwater Etching & Enameling

Thanks for your interest in my online class starting Feb. 1 and running for the whole month. I love to experiment by combining different techniques and that is the inspiration for this class. The techniques of saltwater etching (also known as electro etching) and enameling can be combined to create original works from your photos which can then be enameled. You can choose to combine the techniques or use them separately.

When: Feb. 1-28, 2018

Format: This is a self-directed class designed to maximize online learning capabilities.

- There will be a lot of information in this class. Much of it will be found in photos with detailed notes and videos.
- You are strongly encouraged to take notes or to copy and paste my notes under each photo for future reference.
- I will share many of my personal discoveries with detailed descriptions of the process.
- Each student works at their own pace and all questions to me will be answered in a prompt, timely manner.
- We will have a private group on Facebook where all class members will share results, ask questions, etc.

In this class we will cover:

- How to etch copper using PNP as a resist and salt water with a rectifier as a power source (you may also use a power source of your choice).
- How to use different techniques to enamel etched copper.
- How these two processes can work together.
- Safety & troubleshooting
- Finishing

What you will need:

- Firing method of your choice: a torch or programmable kiln.
- For Saltwater etching, a rectifier or other power source.
- PNP paper
- Class materials and supply lists will be available when you register.

Cost: $175 through Paypal (at annemargaretdinan@gmail.com).

The Facebook link will go live Feb. 1. I will be available to answer all online requests and questions from students from Thursday, Feb. 1 through Wednesday, Feb. 28.

Scholarships: A few spots will be available for $125 for those who cannot afford the full price. Send me a private email message if interested.

No refunds will be given within two weeks of class start.
